

Mayor Visits Fosse Bank School

On Tuesday 16th October 2007, the Mayor of Tonbridge and Malling, Councillor Kemp, visited Fosse Bank School, Hildenborough to open their newly re-located Pre-school Department. She enjoyed listening to a song prepared by the enthusiastic pupils and then played with the children at the plasticine table!

Head of Fosse Bank School, Gillian Lovatt-Young said,
“The children were delighted to have such an important visitor to open their spacious rooms, now located on the ground floor. As soon as the Mayor cut the ribbon, she invited the children to choose their favourite pursuit in the room, and they immediately launched themselves, with their usual gusto, into the wide variety of activities on offer. One little girl, who was worried about the fact that the Mayor was in a wheelchair, quickly made her a get well card!”
